A MODULAR APPROACH

STUDENT WORKBOOK

MODULE 1: ORIENTATION

MODULE 2: BIOGRAPHIC INFORMATION

SPONSORED BY AGENCIES OF THE
UNITED STATES AND CANADIAN GOVERNMENTS

This publication is to be used primarily in support of instructing military personnel as part of the Defense Language Program (resident and nonresident). Inquiries concerning the use of materials, including requests for copies, should be addressed to:

Defense Language Institute
Foreign Language Center
Nonresident Training Division
Presidio of Monterey, CA 93944-5006

Topics in the areas of politics, international relations, mores, etc., which may be considered as controversial from some points of view, are sometimes included in the language instruction for DLIFLC students since military personnel may find themselves in positions where a clear understanding of conversations or written materials of this nature will be essential to their mission. The presence of controversial statements--whether real or apparent--in DLIFLC materials should not be construed as representing the opinions of the writers, the DLIFLC, or the Department of Defense.

Actual brand names and businesses are sometimes cited in DLIFLC instructional materials to provide instruction in pronunciations and meanings. The selection of such proprietary terms and names is based solely on their value for instruction in the language. It does not constitute endorsement of any product or commercial enterprise, nor is it intended to invite a comparison with other brand names and businesses not mentioned.

In DLIFLC publications, the words he, him, and/or his denote both masculine and feminine genders. This statement does not apply to translations of foreign language texts.

The DLIFLC may not have full rights to the materials it produces. Purchase by the customer does not constitute authorization for reproduction, resale, or showing for profit. Generally, products distributed by the DLIFLC may be used in any not-for-profit setting without prior approval from the DLIFLC.

PREFACE

Standard Chinese: A Modular Approach originated in an interagency conference held at the Foreign Service Institute in August 1973 to address the need generally felt in the U.S. Government language training community for improving and updating Chinese materials to reflect current usage in Beijing and Taipei.

The conference resolved to develop materials which were flexible enough in form and content to meet the requirements of a wide range of government agencies and academic institutions.

A Project Board was established consisting of representatives of the Central Intelligence Agency Language Learning Center, the Defense Language Institute, the State Department's Foreign Service Institute, the Cryptologic School of the National Security Agency, and the U.S. Office of Education, later joined by the Canadian Forces Foreign Language School. The representatives have included Arthur T. McNeill, John Hopkins, and John Boag (CIA); Colonel John F. Elder III, Joseph C. Hutchinson, Ivy Gibian, and Major Bernard Muller-Thym (DLI); James R. Frith and John B. Ratliff III (FSI); Kazuo Shitama (NSA); Richard T. Thompson and Julia Petrov (OE); and Lieutenant Colonel George Kozoriz (CFFLS).

The Project Board set up the Chinese Core Curriculum Project in 1974 in space provided at the Foreign Service Institute. Each of the six U.S. and Canadian government agencies provided funds and other assistance.

Gerard P. Kok was appointed project coordinator, and a planning council was formed consisting of Mr. Kok, Frances Li of the Defense Language Institute, Patricia O'Connor of the University of Texas, Earl M. Rickerson of the Language Learning Center, and James Wrenn of Brown University. In the fall of 1977, Lucille A. Barale was appointed deputy project coordinator. David W. Dellinger of the Language Learning Center and Charles R. Sheehan of the Foreign Service Institute also served on the planning council and contributed material to the project. The planning council drew up the original overall design for the materials and met regularly to review their development.

Writers for the first half of the materials were John H. T. Harvey, Lucille A. Barale, and Roberta S. Barry, who worked in close cooperation with the planning council and with the Chinese staff of the Foreign Service Institute. Mr. Harvey developed the instructional formats of the comprehension and production self-study materials, and also designed the communication-based classroom activities and wrote the teacher's guides. Lucille A. Barale and Roberta S. Barry wrote the tape scripts and the student text. By 1978 Thomas E. Madden and Susan C. Pola had joined the staff. Led by Ms. Barale, they have worked as a team to produce the materials subsequent to Module 6.

All Chinese language material was prepared or selected by Chuan O. Chao, Ying-chih Chen, Hsiao-jung Chi, Eva Diao, Jan Hu, Tsung-mi Li, and Yunhui C. Yang, assisted for part of the time by Chieh-fang Ou Lee, Ying-ming Chen, and Joseph Yu Hsu Wang. Anna Affholder, Mei-li Chen, and Henry Khuo helped in the preparation of a preliminary corpus of dialogues.

Administrative assistance was provided at various times by Vincent Basciano, Lisa A. Bowden, Jill W. Ellis, Donna Fong, Renee T. C. Liang, Thomas E. Madden, Susan C. Pola, and Kathleen Strype.

The production of tape recordings was directed by Jose M. Ramirez of the Foreign Service Institute Recording Studio. The Chinese script was voiced by Ms. Chao, Ms. Chen, Mr. Chen, Ms. Diao, Ms. Hu, Mr. Khuo, Mr. Li, and Ms. Yang. The English script was read by Ms. Barale, Ms. Barry, Mr. Basciano, Ms. Ellis, Ms. Pola, and Ms. Strype.

The graphics were produced by John McClelland of the Foreign Service Institute Audio-Visual staff, under the general supervision of Joseph A. Sadote, Chief of Audio-Visual.

Standard Chinese: A Modular Approach was field-tested with the cooperation of Brown University; the Defense Language Institute, Foreign Language Center; the Foreign Service Institute; the Language Learning Center; the United States Air Force Academy; the University of Illinois; and the University of Virginia.

Colonel Samuel L. Stapleton and Colonel Thomas G. Foster, Commandants of the Defense Language Institute, Foreign Language Center, authorized the DLIFLC support necessary for preparation of this edition of the course materials. This support included coordination, graphic arts, editing, typing, proofreading, printing, and materials necessary to carry out these tasks.

James R. Frith, Chairman
Chinese Core Curriculum Project Board

MODULE 2: BIOGRAPHIC INFORMATION

UNIT 1 C-2 WORKBOOK

EXERCISE 1

This exercise is based on a conversation contrasting the Chinese words for "this" and "that." The Display I diagram sets the scene. (Triangles are men, and circles are women. The solid triangle and circle are the speakers on tape.) A man and woman are talking in front of a hotel. Another man and woman are standing nearby, but are not in the conversation. Still another man and woman are in sight across the street, in front of another hotel. In other words, the diagram shows which hotel and which people are near enough to the speakers to be "this" and which are far enough away to be "that."

If you listen carefully to the conversation, you can work out the name and title of each person represented in Display I, as well as where each is staying. You will hear the conversation three times. As you listen for the third time, write (in English) each person's name and the hotel where he is staying (X or Y) in the brackets beside the figure which represents that person.

Here is a new phrase you will hear:

Duì le. (Yes, that's right.)

DISPLAY I

EXERCISE 2

Each conversation in this exercise will tell you where one person is from, where he is living, and where he is now. You will hear each conversation twice. As you listen to it for the second time, complete the chart below for the appropriate person. (Use check marks.)

Notice that Nǐ lǎojiā zài nǎlǐ? with the verb zài asks for the home province, while Nǐ lǎojiā shì nǎlǐ? with the verb shì asks for the hometown. The same applies to answers. You may think of this as the difference between "Your hometown is in what province?" and "Your hometown is what town?"

UNIT 1 P-2 WORKBOOK

In this exercise you will talk about which hotels various people are staying at and which hotel they happen to be in at the moment—"this" one or "that" one. The situation is shown in Display I. The two speakers are standing in front of one hotel. Obviously, for them it is "this" hotel, and the hotel across the street is "that" hotel. The outline triangles and circles show where four other people are. Comrade Fù and Comrade Sūn are breakfasting together in one hotel, and Comrade Yǎn and Comrade Cài in the other. The arrows indicate the paths they have taken from their rooms. Comrade Sūn and Comrade Yǎn have stepped across the street from the hotels where they are staying, while Comrade Fù and Comrade Cài are still in their own hotels.

Try to answer each of the First Speaker's questions before the Second Speaker does, and then repeat the Second Speaker's answer.

DISPLAY I

EXERCISE 2

This exercise is a series of questions about the hometowns and home states of four Americans. The information you will need for your answers is shown in Display II.

NOTE:

(PROVINCE/STATE)

Wǒ lǎojiā zài Shāndōng.

(My "native place" is in Shāndōng.)

(CITY)

Wǒ lǎojiā shì Qīngdǎo.

(My "native place" is Qīngdǎo.)

UNIT 1 COMMUNICATION GAME A

INSTRUCTIONS:

Type: Matching

Situation: The setting is Běijīng. You are talking with someone about what cities four other people are from, what cities they live in, and what cities they happen to be in now (on visits).

Goal: To find matches between where two people are from, where two people live, or where two people are now.

Number of Players: Pairs of students.

Materials: A fact sheet for each player. (See Sample Fact Sheets, which follow.)

The names of the two people you know about are written on the map next to the cities they live in. Arrows lead FROM the cities they are from TO the cities they live in. Other arrows lead FROM the cities they live in TO the cities they are visiting. In other words, each pair of head-to-tail arrows traces a person's progress from his home city to the city he lives in and on to the city he is visiting. Wú Tiānxiáng, for instance, is from Guǎngzhōu, lives in Chéngdū, and is visiting Nánjīng now.

The names of the people your partner knows about are listed on your fact sheet in the lower left-hand corner.

Procedure: Ask your partner questions about the people he knows about. When you find a match between one of these people and a person on your map, point it out immediately, using yě.

Example: You are Speaker 1.

S1: Zhāng Guóhuá lǎojiā shì nǎr?

S2: Tā lǎojiā shì Guǎngzhōu.

S1: Wú Tiānxiáng lǎojiā yě shì Guǎngzhōu. Zhāng Tóngzhī zhù zai nǎr?

S2: Tā zhù zai Shànghǎi.

S1: Tā xiànzài zài nǎr?

S2: Tā xiànzài zài Tiānjīn.

At this point your partner will probably ask about someone on your map.

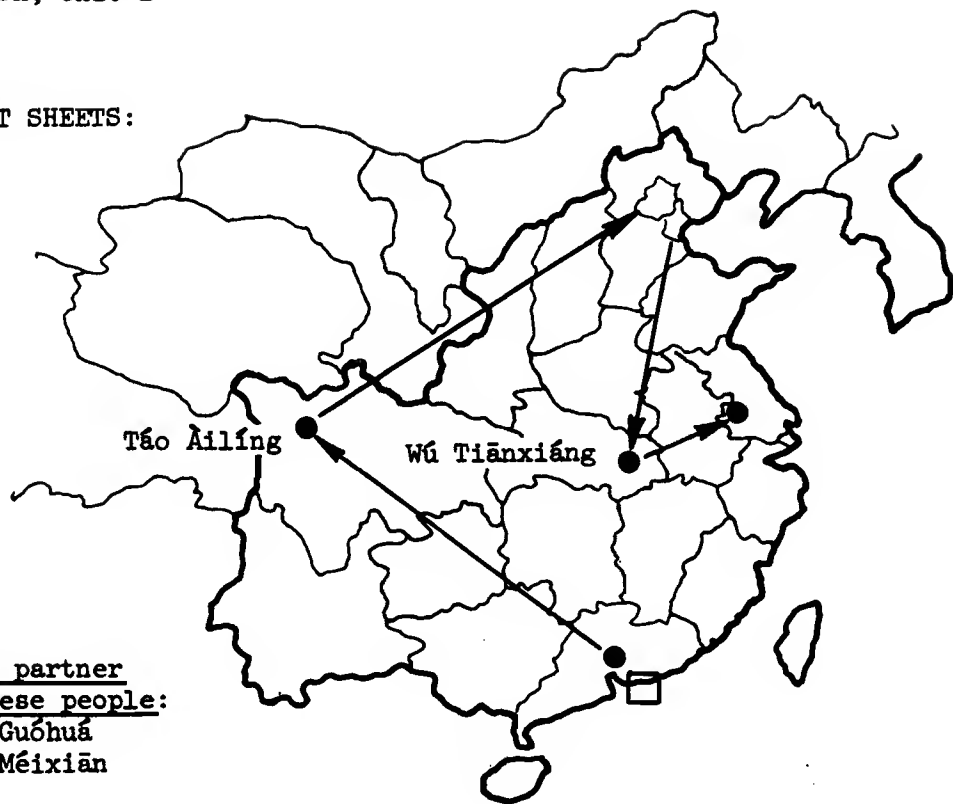

Additional Note: If you do not know the name of a city or its location, refer to the map in the ORN textbook. You may also ask your teacher in Chinese.

Practice Points: Lǎojiā shì, zhù zai, xiànzài zài.

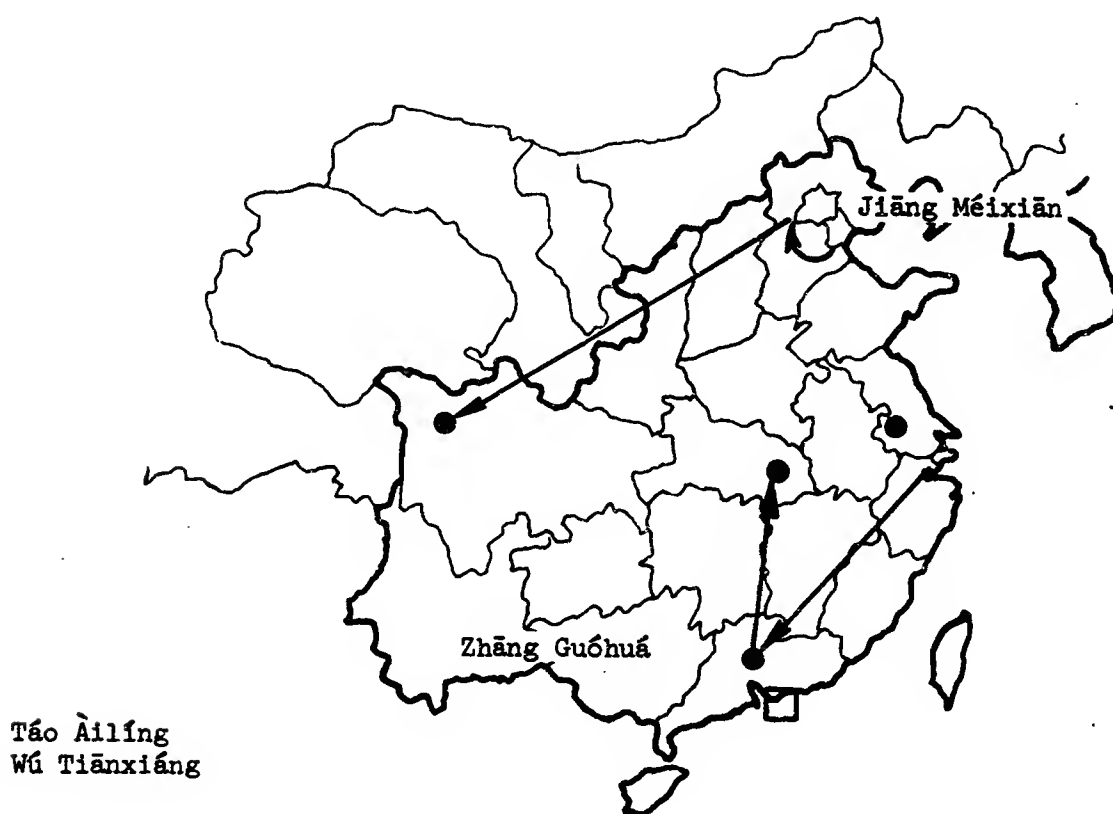

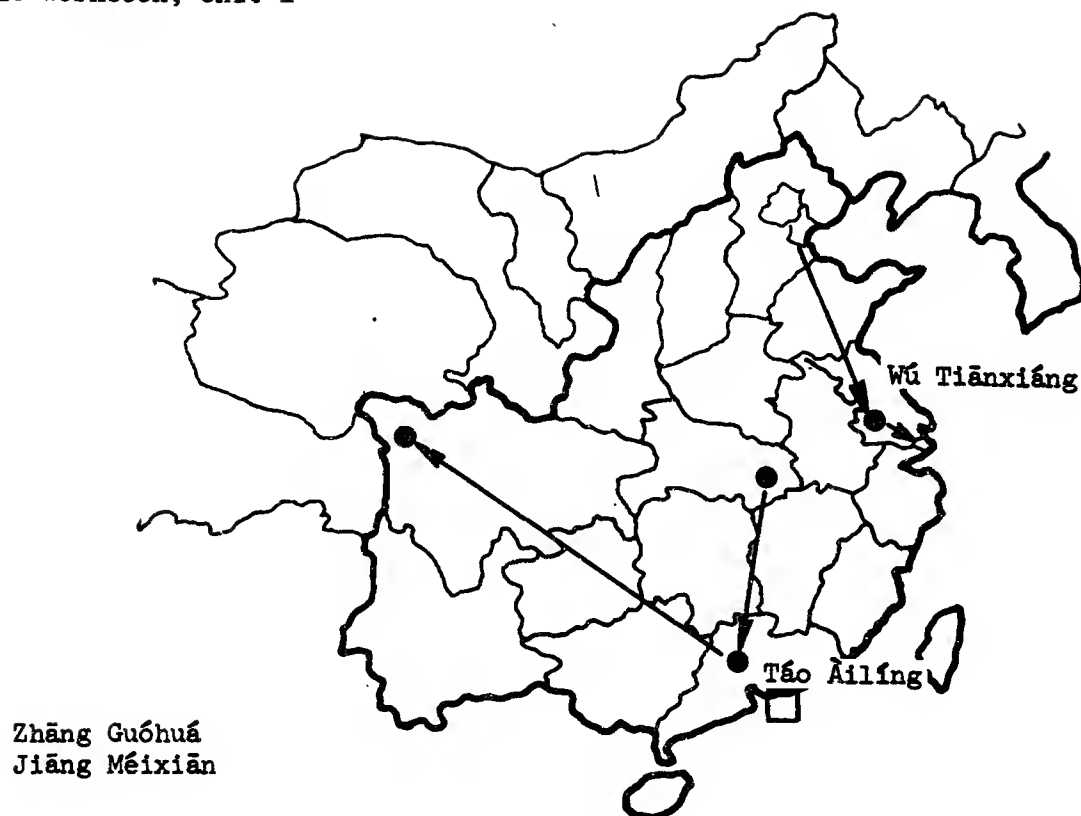

SAMPLE FACT SHEETS:

Ask your partner
about these people:

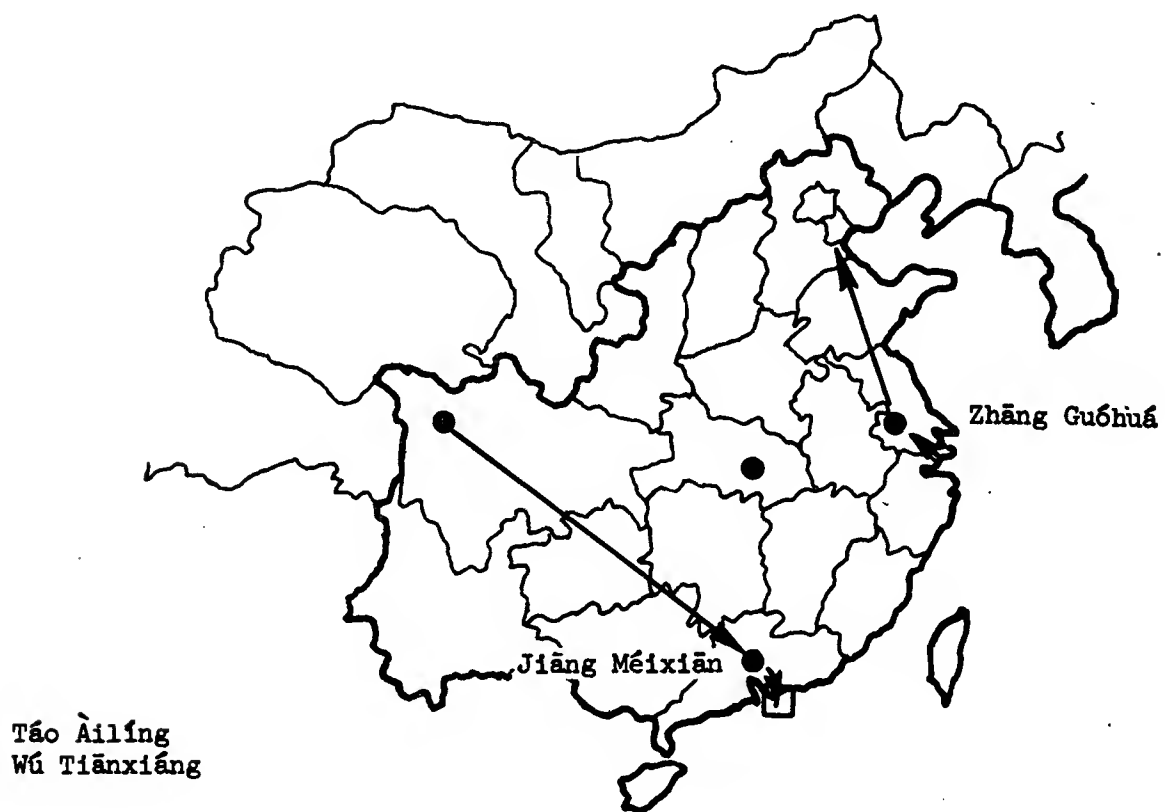

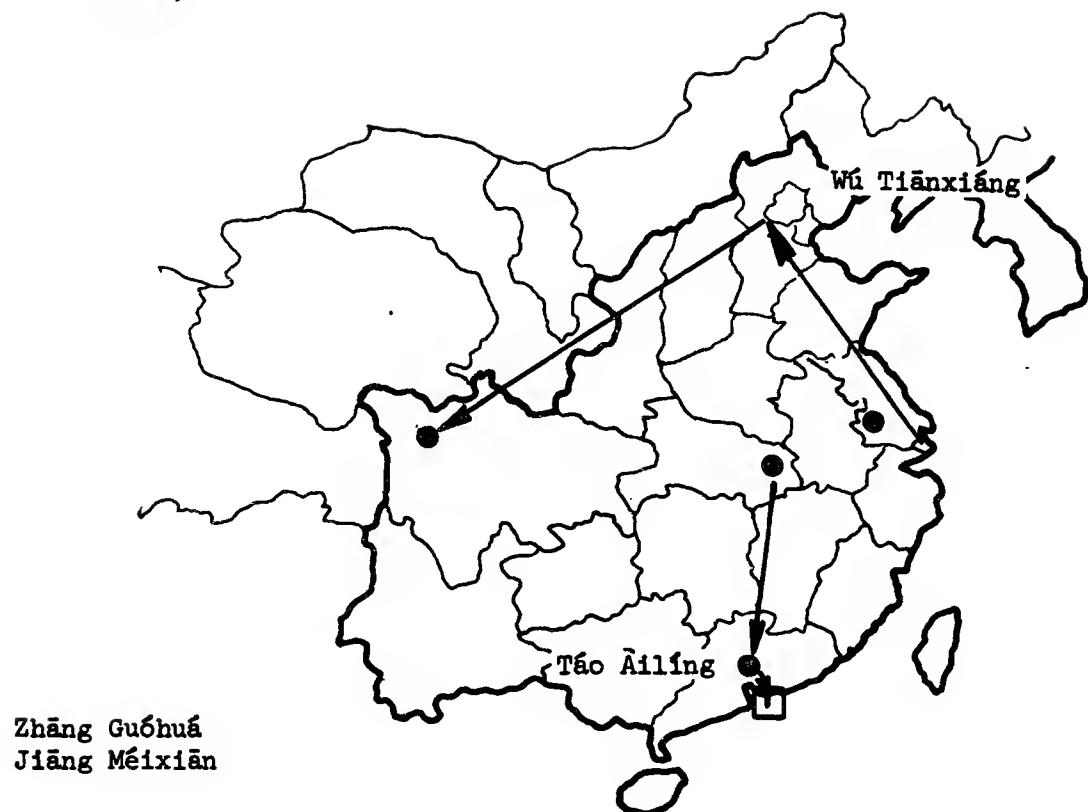

Zhāng Guóhuá
Jiāng Méixiān

Táo Àilíng
Wú Tiānxiáng

UNIT 1 COMMUNICATION GAME B

INSTRUCTIONS:

Type: Matching

Situation: The setting is Běijīng. You are talking with three people about where four other people are from, where they are living or staying, and where they happen to be at the moment.

Goal: To find matches between "hometowns/home provinces," "residences," or "present locations."

Number of Players: Groups of four students.

Materials: One deck of cards with names of people written on them and
1) two decks of "home" cards--one for hometowns and one for home provinces;
2) two decks of "residence" cards--one for cities and one for hotels;
3) two decks of "present location" cards--one for cities and one for places.
(See Cards--Matching, which follow.)

For each round, use one deck of each kind--"hometown/home province," "residence," and "present location"--plus the name cards.

Procedure: Each player is dealt a name card and one card from each of the three other decks. When you are given the name card, place it face up in front of you so that the other players will know which person to question you about. (You will use this card for all rounds.) Keep your other three cards in your hand.

Use the "questioning by turns" procedure. Choose one player to be questioned by the other players. Then take turns asking him questions about the person named on his card. When matches are found for "home," "residence," and "present location," choose another player to be questioned, and so on until each player has had his turn.

During the questioning within your group, when a match is found between the "home," "residence," or "present location" of any two persons named on the cards, point it out immediately, using yě. (Do this even when you are not the questioner or the person being questioned.)

Example: You are Speaker 1. You have the name card for Wáng Dànián and the following three cards:

HOME PROVINCE:	Guǎngdōng
RESIDENCE:	Běijīng Hotel
PRESENT LOCATION:	Tiānānmén (Gate of Heavenly Peace)

As you question Speaker 3 about Mǎ Mínglǐ, you find the first match:

S1: Mǎ Mínglǐ lǎojiā zài nǎr?

S3: Tā lǎojiā zài Guǎngdōng.

S1: Wáng Dànián lǎojiā yě zài Guǎngdōng.

And Speaker 2 continues the questioning.

Additional Note: To play a second round, use the other "home," "residence," and "present location" decks. Additional rounds may be played by shuffling and redealing the cards.

Practice Points: Lǎojiā zài/shì, zhù zài, xiànzài zài.

UNIT 2 C-2 WORKBOOK

In this exercise you will listen to a conversation at the Taiwan Hotel between Mr. Martin and Mrs. Lǐ. They are talking about where they and several other people live and work.

You will hear the conversation three times. As you listen to it for the third time, stop the tape as needed to complete the chart below. You will fill in only some of the boxes, leaving blank those for which information is not given in the conversation.

Here are the new words and phrases you will hear:

lù	(road)
tāde nàwèi péngyou	(that friend of his)
Měiguó Yínháng	(Bank of America)
Táiwān Yínháng	(Bank of Taiwan)
Dìyī Dàfàndiàn	(First Hotel)

	EMPLOYMENT	RESIDENCE
Mr. Martin (Mǎ)

Mr. Lǐ
Miss Liú
Mr. Jones (Zhōu)
Mrs. Jones (Zhōu)
Mr. Hú
Mrs. Hú
Mr. Zhāng Tíngfēng
Mr. Zhāng Shìyǐng

EXERCISE 2

In this exercise you will listen to a conversation at a party in Taipei. Mrs. Jiāng is asking Mr. Ān about the guests she has not met. She finds that there are two Mr. Smiths (Sī). As their conversation breaks off, they have just been joined by one of the Mr. Smiths.

You will want to keep the following words straight:

nǎwèi (which [person])

nàwèi (that [person])

zhèwèi (this [person])

And you must be able to recognize this new kind of expression:

Měiguó Yínháng	-de	nǎwèi	Sī Xiānsheng
(Bank of America	- 's	that	Mr. Smith)
(the Bank of America Mr. Smith)
(the Mr. Smith who works at the Bank of America)

What makes this expression difficult for speakers of English is the way nǎwèi comes between Měiguó Yínhángde and Sī Xiānsheng. In English, you could say "that Mr. Smith" or "the Bank of America's Mr. Smith," but never "the Bank of America's that Mr. Smith."

You will hear the conversation three times. (You might want to rewind the tape and listen again, and even take notes. The plot is fairly thick.) After listening for the third time, answer the question below.

QUESTION

- Where does the Mr. Smith who has just joined them work?
 - () the Bank of America (Měiguó Yínháng)
 - () the U.S. International Communications Agency (Měiguó Guójì Jiāoliú Zǒngshǔ)

EXERCISE 3

In this exercise you will listen to a conversation which is mostly over your head. However, you should be able to understand enough to answer the questions below. Write your answers as you listen to the conversation for the third time.

For this exercise, you will need to know the Chinese versions of two American names:

Bǎo	(Bauer)
Hé	(Herbert)

QUESTIONS

1. What is Mr. Fāng's address? _____
2. Where is Major Bauer now? _____
3. Where does Major Bauer work? _____
4. Where is Major Herbert staying? _____
5. Where is Mrs. Herbert now? _____

UNIT 2 P-2 WORKBOOK

EXERCISE 1

EXERCISE 2

EXERCISE 3

In these exercises you will answer a series of questions about one set of facts. The questions are divided into three exercises to allow you to catch your breath between answers.

The questions are about where various people are now, where they live, and where they work. The situation is shown in Display I. The triangles and circles show where three people are now. The arrows show the paths they take from where they live to where they work. Mr. Cáo, who is staying at the First Hotel, is already at work at the Bank of Taiwan. Miss Liú, who lives with friends (the Tángs), is already at work at the post office. Mrs. Lín, who works at the First Hotel, is still at home.

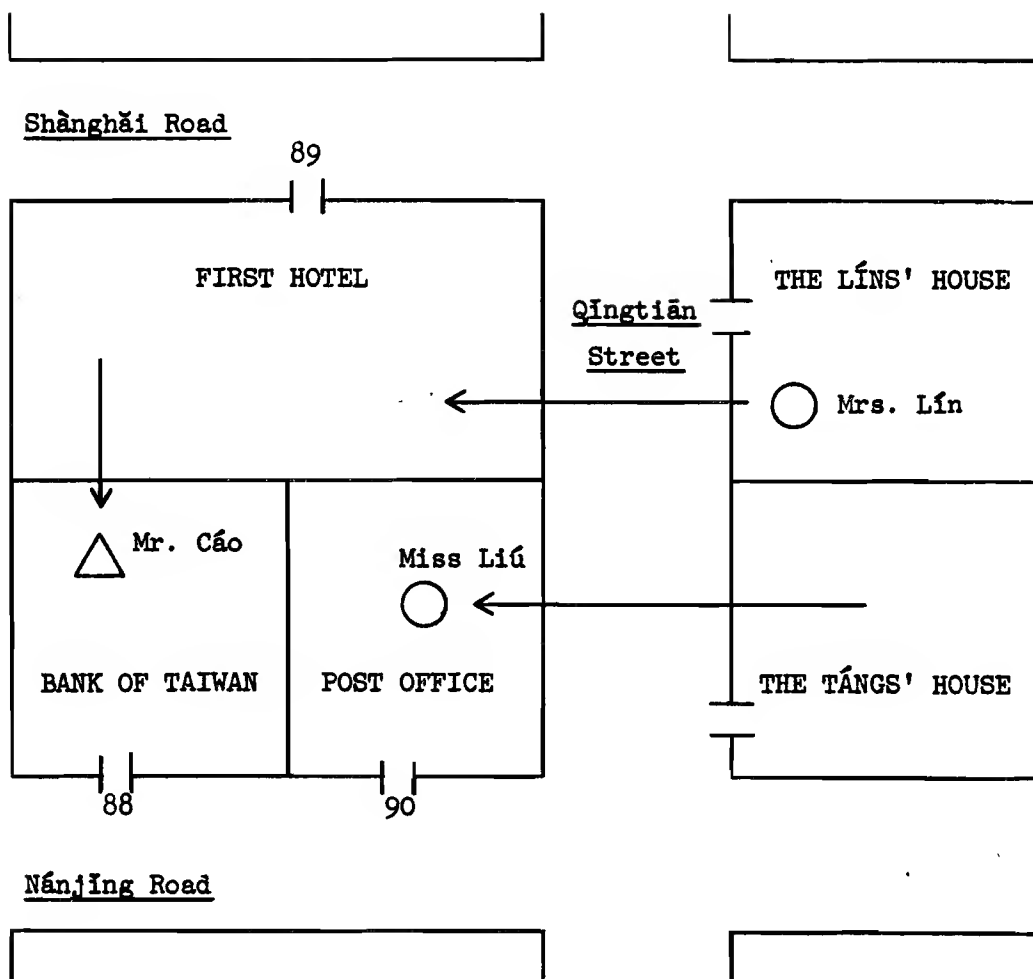

In the display, building numbers are given for public buildings. When asked where a public building is, include the number in your reply. (In Chinese you would normally mention the building number of a private house only when asked for the address.)

You will hear the word shéi, "who," used as the subject of some of the questions.

Here are the new vocabulary items you will need in this exercise:

yóuzhèngjú	(post office)
lù	(road)
Měiguó Yínháng	(Bank of America)
Táiwān Yínháng	(Bank of Taiwan)

DISPLAY I

UNIT 2 COMMUNICATION GAME A

INSTRUCTIONS:

Type: Matching

Situation: The setting is Taipei. You are talking with three people about where four other people work, are staying, and happen to be right now.

Goal: To find matches between where two people work, are staying, or happen to be right now.

Number of Players: Groups of four students.

Materials: A work sheet for each player. (See Sample Work Sheets, which follow.)

At the top of each work sheet is a diagram showing three office buildings and three hotels. The six large rectangles below the diagram are simplified representations of the diagram. Each square within a rectangle stands for the office building or hotel in the same relative position in the diagram. For instance, the upper left square is the USICA building.

Each column of rectangles is for a different round of play. In each column, the four rectangles labeled A through D are for recording information about four different people. On your work sheet, one rectangle in each column is already filled in with information about the person you are supposed to know, whose name is written at the bottom of your work sheet.

The following symbols are used: a desk () means that the person works in that office building; a bed () means that the person is staying at that hotel; and a triangle or circle means that the man or woman is at that office or hotel now.

Procedure: Mingle with the players in your group to exchange information.

First, write the name of the person you know about on the line to the left of the filled-in rectangles. Then, ask a player in your group the name of the person he knows about. Write that name on the second line. Then, record information about that person in the rectangle beside his name, using symbols.

When you find a match between the office, residence, or present location of the person you know about and another person, point it out immediately, using yě.

Continue exchanging information until all players have information about all four people.

Example: You are Speaker 1.

S2: Tā (the person you know about) shì shéi?

S1: Tā shì Wáng Dànián.

S2: Tā zài nǎlǐ gōngzuò?

S1: Tā zài Měiguó Wǔguānchù gōngzuò.

S2: Tā zhù zài nǎlǐ? (OR Tā zhù zài nǎge fāndiàn?)

S1: Tā zhù zài Dìyī Dàfàndiàn.

S2: Tā xiànzài zài Táiwān Dàfàndiàn.

At this point, Speaker 2 finds a match, so she says:

S2: Hú Měilíng (the person she knows about) xiànzài yě zài Táiwān Dàfàndiàn.

Additional Note: For this game you need to know the following vocabulary item:

Měiguó Guójì Jiāoliú Zōngshū (U.S. International Communications Agency)

Practice Points: Zài...gōngzuò, zhù zài..., xiànzài zài.

UNIT 2 COMMUNICATION GAME B

INSTRUCTIONS:

Type: Science (In games of this type, your goal is to find regular patterns in the facts as you gather them and then to use those patterns to predict the remaining facts.)

Situation: The same as for Communication Game A in this unit.

Goal: To find regular patterns in the facts after gathering only some of them and to use those patterns to predict the remaining facts. In other words, to predict the offices, residences, and present locations of the last several people you ask about.

Number of Players: Groups of four players.

Materials: The same as for Communication Game A in this unit. (See Sample Work Sheets, which follow.)

Procedure: Mingle with the players in your group to exchange information. Record on your work sheet the information you collect.

Until you see a regular pattern, gather facts by asking questions with the question word náli. When you think you see a pattern, make predictions by making statements with the marker ba. Give yourself a point for every correct prediction, and take away a point for every incorrect one.

If you do not see a pattern by the time you talk with your last partner, either continue to gather facts with náli questions or indulge in a little guessing with ba statements.

Example: You are Speaker 1. Only your questions about where people live are included here.

S1: Tā zhù zai nǎlǐ?

S2: Tā zhù zai Táiwān Dàfàndiàn.

S1: Tā zhù zai něige fàndiàn?

S3: Tā zhù zai Táiwān Dàfàndiàn.

S1: Tā zhù zai Táiwān Dàfàndiàn ba.

S4: Shìde, tā zhù zai Táiwān Dàfàndiàn.

(Of course, the patterns can be less obvious than this one.)

Additional Note: For this game you need to know the following vocabulary item:

Měiguó Guójì Jiāoliú Zǒngshǔ (U.S. International Communications Agency)

Practice Points: Zài...gōngzuò, zhù zai, xiānzài zài, ba, něige.

UNIT 3 C-2 WORKBOOK

EXERCISE 1

In each of the twelve conversations in this exercise, a person is asked about the other members of his family. You will hear each conversation twice. After listening to it for the second time, stop the tape and fill in the chart below with information about the speaker's family. (Use check marks for "father," "mother," "husband," and "wife." Write the appropriate numbers under "sons" and "daughters.")

You will need to recognize one new word in this exercise:

fūmǔ (parents)

The word is an abbreviation of fūqin mǔqin, "father and mother."

	FATHER	MOTHER	HUSBAND	WIFE	SONS	DAUGHTERS
SPEAKER 1
SPEAKER 2
SPEAKER 3
SPEAKER 4
SPEAKER 5
SPEAKER 6
SPEAKER 7
SPEAKER 8
SPEAKER 9
SPEAKER 10
SPEAKER 11
SPEAKER 12

EXERCISE 2

In this exercise you will hear eight people telling how many brothers and sisters they have. Chinese does have words for "brothers" and "sisters." As seen in the following diagram, Chinese also has words for "older brother," "younger brother," "older sister," and "younger sister."

Xiōngdì amounts to an abbreviation of gēge dìdì, since xiōng has the same meaning as gē. Jiěmèi is an abbreviation of jiějie mèimei.

You will hear the discussion of each person's brothers and sisters twice. After listening for the second time, fill in the chart below with the appropriate numbers.

	OLDER BROTHERS	OLDER SISTERS	YOUNGER BROTHERS	YOUNGER SISTERS
1.
2.
3.
4.
5.
6.
7.
8.

EXERCISE 3

This exercise involves a conversation in Taipei between Miss Fāng and Mr. Jones (Zhāng), an American. They are talking about their families.

	RELATIVES	LOCATIONS
Miss Fāng:
Mr. Zhāng:

EXERCISE 4

In this exercise you will listen to a conversation between Mr. Zhāng and Mrs. Brown (Huáng). They are talking about their children. Mrs. Brown has snapshots of hers.

You will hear the conversation three times. You may not understand everything, but you will get the gist of it. As you listen for the third time, answer the question below.

QUESTION

- List Mrs. Brown's children and Mr. Zhāng's children by sex and in order of birth. For example, "boy" (oldest), "boy" (middle), "girl" (youngest).

	CHILDREN
	OLDEST			YOUNGEST
Mrs. Brown:
Mr. Zhāng:

UNIT 3 P-2 WORKBOOK

EXERCISE 1

In this exercise you will answer questions about what people make up "your" family. You are provided with a different family for each numbered item. (See Display I.) Your family is represented as a "family tree." For this exercise, your family consists at most of a spouse and children.

Example 1

Labels have been added to this sample family tree. Males are represented by triangles, and females by circles. The left-to-right order of the children is oldest-to-youngest. Notice that you are represented by the solid figure (in this case, a triangle).

You would hear on tape,

Nǐ jiāli yǒu shénme rén?

and you would answer,

Yǒu wǒ tàitai, yíge nánháizi, gēn yíge nǚháizi.

[Repeat confirmation.]

Remember to use possessive wǒ, "my," with tàitai and xiānsheng. For this exercise, use gēn before the last noun phrase, the way you would use "and" in English.

Example 2

If there is only one other person in your family, say that there is only that person and you, using the adverb jiù, "only," or "just."

Q: Nǐ jiāli yǒu shénme rén?

A: Jiù yǒu wǒ xiānsheng gēn wǒ. [Repeat confirmation.]

A Chinese man would probably list himself first: Jiù yǒu wǒ gēn wǒ tàitai.

Example 3

If there is no one else in your family, say that there is only you, using the expression yíge rén, literally "one person."

Q: Nǐ jiāli yǒu shénme rén?

A: Jiù yǒu wǒ yíge rén. [Repeat confirmation.]

DISPLAY I

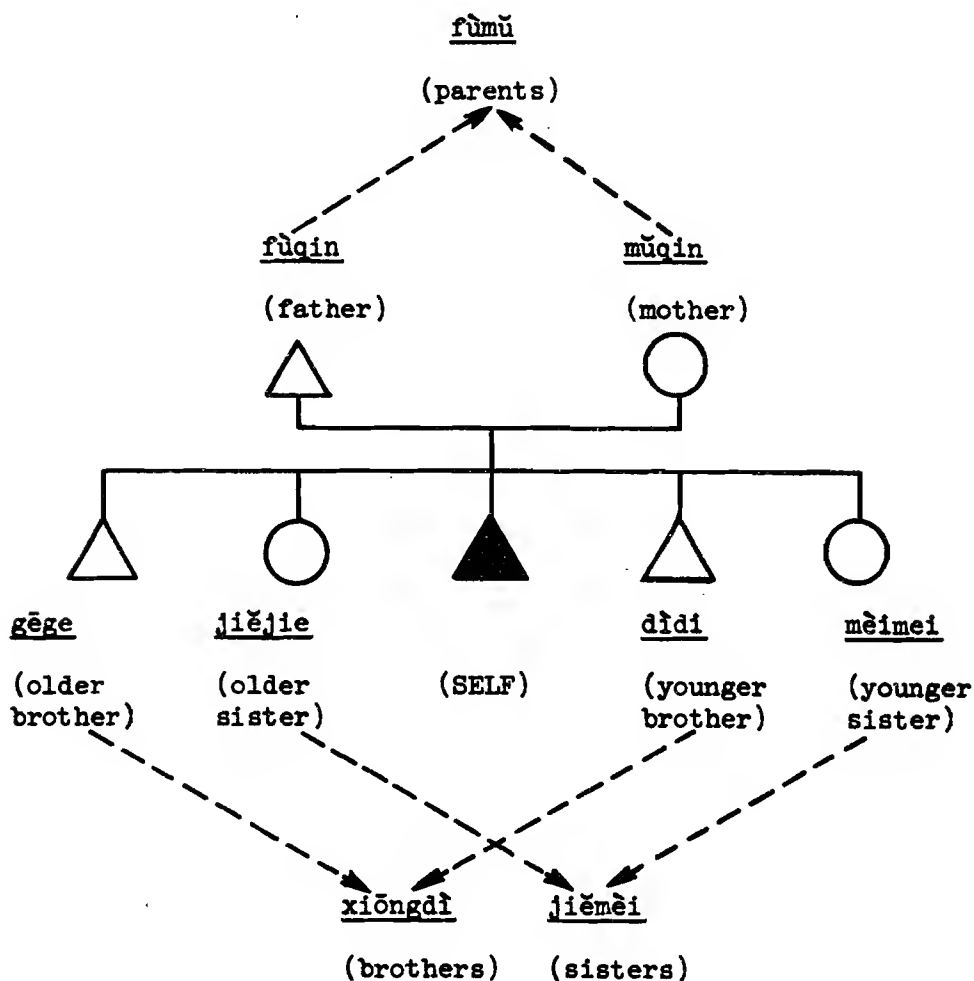

EXERCISE 2

This exercise is similar to the last one, except that your family will consist only of parents and brothers and sisters.

Here are the words you will need for this exercise:

In Chinese you can say either wǒ fùmǔ or wǒ fùqin mǔqin. In this exercise you should use wǒ fùmǔ.

Example 1 (using the family tree on the previous page)

Q: Nǐ jiāli yǒu shénme rén?

Answer in terms of so many "old brothers," "older sisters," "younger sisters," and "younger brothers."

A: Yǒu wǒ fùmǔ, yíge gēge, yíge jiějie, yíge dìdi, gēn yíge mèimei.

Example 2

Q: Nǐ yǒu xiōngdì jiěmèi ma?

If you are asked specifically whether you have brothers and sisters, you should answer only "I do" or "I don't" unless you have only one.

A: Jiù yǒu yíge mèimei.

Example 3

Q: Nǐ yǒu xiōngdì jiěmèi ma?

If you have more than one brother or sister, simply give the direct answer Yǒu, and wait for the follow-up question about how many you have before giving the full list.

A: Yǒu.

Q: Yǒu jǐge?

A: Yǒu yíge gēge, yíge jiějie, gēn yíge dìdi.

DISPLAY II

EXERCISE 3

In exercises 1 and 2 you listed all the members of your immediate family. In this exercise a new question is introduced:

Nǐ jiāli yǒu jǐge rén? (How many are there in your household?)

Although this could refer to your whole family, it usually means only the members of your household--that is, relatives actually living with you (shown in your "family tree" as inside the closed broken line).

When asked Nǐ jiāli yǒu jǐge rén? you will answer with the number of people. Then answer the follow-up question Dōu shì shéi? "Who are they [all]?" by listing them. Don't worry too much about the order in which you list your relatives or whether you include yourself. The main point is to get the numbers and relationships right.

Example

Q: Nǐ jiāli yǒu jǐge rén?

A: Yǒu sìge.

Q: Dōu shì shéi?

A: Wǒ fùqīn, wǒ, wǒ tàitai, gēn yíge nǚháizi.

If there is only one other member of your household or if you are alone, you can say so directly in answer to the first question: Jiù yǒu wǒ gēn wǒ tàitai or Jiù yǒu wǒ yíge rén.

Remember that the question Nǐ jiāli yǒu shénme rén? (which is also asked in this exercise) refers to all the members of your immediate family--that is, to everyone shown in the family tree, whether they live with you or not. For this exercise, assume that every member of your family who is not in your household in Taiwan is in the United States.

DISPLAY III

UNIT 3 COMMUNICATION GAME A

INSTRUCTIONS:

Type: Matching

Situation: The setting is Taipei. You and several other people are talking about your families.

Goal: To find matches between your family and your partner's family: the same number of younger brothers, older sisters, and so forth.

Number of Players: Groups of four to six students.

Materials: A fact sheet for each player. (See Sample Fact Sheets, which follow.)

In the "family trees" on the fact sheets, there is one triangle or circle for each relationship: father and mother (top row), older brothers and sisters (middle row, two figures at the left), younger brothers and sisters (middle row, two figures at the right), you and your spouse (middle row, two middle figures), and your children (bottom row).

A number which appears under a triangle or circle shows how many relatives of that kind you have. If there is no number, there are no people related to you in this way.

You are shown as the shaded figure in the family tree.

Procedure: Mingle with the other players in your group to exchange information.

When you question someone, he will answer and add Nǐ jiāli yǒu shénme rén? Point out any matches in your family and his before answering his question. Then write his name under the triangle or circle on your fact sheet which represents the matching relationship.

Example: You are Speaker 1.

S1: Nǐ jiāli yǒu shénme rén?

S2: Yǒu wǒ fùmǔ, yíge dìdì, wǒ tàitai, gēn liǎngge nǚháizi.

Nǐ jiāli yǒu shénme rén?

S1: Wǒ yě yǒu liǎngge nǚháizi. Wǒ jiāli yǒu wǒ fùmǔ, yíge jiějie, liǎngge dìdì, wǒ tàitai, yíge nánháizi, gēn liǎngge nǚháizi.

Additional Note: Since all players in this game will have one father, one mother, and one spouse, there is no need to match these relatives.

Practice Points: Everything in the unit.

SAMPLE FACT SHEETS:

UNIT 3 COMMUNICATION GAME B

INSTRUCTIONS:

Type: Science (Memory)

Situation: The setting is Taipei. You and several other people are talking about your families.

Goal: To ask all players about certain kinds of family members, to find a pattern in the number of such relatives in different families, and to predict how many of these relatives the last several players have.

Number of Players: Groups of six students or fewer.

Materials: A fact sheet for each player. These fact sheets are like the fact sheets for Communication Game A in this unit.

Procedure: Mingle with the other players in your group to exchange information.

Until you see a regular pattern, use question-word questions (or the single question Nǐ jiāli yǒu shénme rén?). When you think that you see a regular pattern, try making a prediction with a ba sentence.

Take notes on the information you get. (You can jot them down on your fact sheet under the information about your family.)

Example: You are Speaker 1.

S1: Nǐ jiāli yǒu shénme rén?

S2: Yǒu . . . , yíge mèimei,

S1: Nǐ jiāli yǒu shénme rén?

S3: Yǒu . . . , yíge mèimei,

S1: Nǐ yǒu yíge mèimei ba.

S4: Shìde, wǒ yǒu yíge mèimei. Wǒ jiāli yǒu

Practice Points: Everything in the unit.

SAMPLE FACT SHEETS:

UNIT 4 C-2 WORKBOOK

In this exercise you will listen to the manager of a hotel discussing with a clerk the day of arrival and the day of departure for various guests. You will hear their discussion of each guest twice. As you listen for the second time, record the facts by checking the appropriate boxes below.

You will need to recognize two new words:

qiántiān (the day before yesterday)

hòutiān (the day after tomorrow)

	THE DAY BEFORE YESTERDAY	YESTERDAY	TODAY NOW	TOMORROW	THE DAY AFTER TOMORROW
1. Wáng Yàozōng Arrival:

3. Zhào Shàohuá Arrival:
Departure:
4. Lǐ Bǎoyí Arrival:
Departure:
5. Hé Bǐngān Arrival:
Departure:
6. Zhāng Guóhuá Arrival:
Departure:
7. Qián Wěidǎ Arrival:
Departure:
8. Sūn Bāngyǎn Arrival:
Departure:

EXERCISE 2

This exercise is based on a conversation between Mr. Qián and Miss Wáng. Mr. Qián has come to Taipei for a few days. He happens to run into Miss Wáng, whom he has not seen for some time.

You will hear the conversation three times. Answer the question below as you listen for the third time.

You will need to know two new expressions:

jiéhūn (to get married, to be married)

méi jiéhūn (not to be married)

QUESTION

1. Among the people who will be at the wedding, who (if anyone) already lives in Taipei? _____

arrived the day before yesterday? _____

arrived yesterday? _____

arrived today? _____

will arrive today? _____

will arrive tomorrow? _____

will arrive the day after tomorrow? _____

UNIT 4 P-2 WORKBOOK

In this exercise you will answer questions about WHETHER actions took place (with le) and questions about WHEN actions took place (with shí...de). You will also answer questions about when actions are going to take place (without le and shí...de).

The scene is the office of a hotel. The manager is asking the clerk about arrivals and departures of various guests. The information available to the clerk is shown in Display I. (The manager's questions show that he already has some information and is fairly sure about what some of the information will be.) The tail of each arrow shows the day of that guest's arrival and the head shows the day of his departure.

Try answering the manager's questions before the clerk does, and then repeat the clerk's answers.

Here are the new vocabulary items you will need for this exercise:

qiántiān (the day before yesterday)

hòutiān (the day after tomorrow)

DISPLAY I

	THE DAY BEFORE YESTERDAY	YESTERDAY	TODAY NOW	TOMORROW	THE DAY AFTER TOMORROW
Wáng Yàozōng		→
Wú Tiānxiáng			→
Zhào Shàohuá			→
Lǐ Bǎoyí		→			→
Hé Bǐngān	→		→
Zhāng Guóhuá	→				→
Qián Wěidǎ	→
Sūn Bāngyàn				→	→

EXERCISE 2

In Exercise 1 you put le after the verb or méi before the verb if the question was WHETHER the action took place. You put shì or bú shì before the verb and de after the verb if the question was WHEN the action took place.

You probably followed the simple and generally effective strategy of noticing whether the question had le or shì...de in it and answering accordingly, like this:

- | | | |
|----|--------------------------|-------------------------------|
| Q: | Tā (yǐjīng) zǒule ma? | (Has he left [already]?) |
| A: | Tā (yǐjīng) zǒule. | (He has left [already].) |
| A: | Tā (hái) méi zǒu. | (He has not left [yet].) |
| Q: | Tā shì nǚtiān zǒude? | (What day did he leave?) |
| A: | Tā shì zuótiān zǒude. | (He left yesterday.) |
| Q: | Tā shì zuótiān zǒude ma? | (Did he leave yesterday?) |
| A: | Tā shì zuótiān zǒude. | (He did leave yesterday.) |
| A: | Tā bú shì zuótiān zǒude. | (He did not leave yesterday.) |

You also had another clue: whether or not there was a time word like nǚtiān in the question.

However, you can not count on always having such direct clues as to when to use le (or méi) and when to use shì...de (or bú shì...de). There is no question to copy from when you want to volunteer information or when you want to ask a question yourself. You have to make the choice on your own, on the basis of whether you are talking about the event itself or about some aspect of the event--or, to put it more concretely, on the basis of whether you are emphasizing the main verb or some earlier part of the sentence. This exercise gives you practice in making the choice.

Again in the hotel office, the manager is asking the clerk questions about the departures of certain guests. Display II is a list of the questions (in English) that the manager will ask. (They are rephrased in parentheses to indicate what the manager knows or assumes and what he wants to know.)

There are three types of questions:

Example 1*

- DID Sūn Ruīmíng leave yesterday? Sūn Ruīmíng zuótiān zǒule ma?
 (He was planning to leave, but did he?)

Knowing that this guest was planning to leave yesterday and wanting to know WHETHER the guest did leave, the manager uses le. (Notice that the time can be mentioned incidentally when the center of interest is on WHETHER the action took place.)

*These examples are the first three items on the tape.

Example 2

WHEN did Wáng Měiróng leave? Wáng Měiróng shì shénme shíhou zǒude?
(She did leave, but when?)

The manager knows that this guest has left. Wanting to know WHEN she left, the manager uses shì...de.

Example 3

Did Zhāng Hòurén leave YESTERDAY? Zhāng Hòurén shì zuótiān zǒude ma?
(He did leave, but was it yesterday?)

Again, the manager knows that this guest has left and wants to know WHEN he left. However, this time the manager makes a specific guess, namely that it was yesterday.

After hearing each item number on the tape, try to ask the question before the manager does. Then listen to his question and repeat. Finally, listen to the clerk's answer.

DISPLAY II

1. DID Sūn Ruīmíng leave yesterday? (He was planning to leave, but did he?)
2. WHEN did Wáng Měiróng leave? (She did leave, but when?)
3. Did Zhāng Hòurén leave YESTERDAY? (He did leave, but was it yesterday?)
4. Did Bāo Shàoyīng leave the DAY BEFORE YESTERDAY? (He did leave, but was it the day before yesterday?)
5. DID Bāo Shàowén leave today? (He was planning to leave, but did he?)
6. WHEN did Jiāng Měilíng leave? (She did leave, but when?)
7. DID Sūn Bīngyíng leave the day before yesterday? (She was planning to leave, but did she?)
8. Did Bāo Huīrán leave YESTERDAY? (She did leave, but was it yesterday?)
9. WHEN did Lǐ Shīyíng leave? (He did leave, but when?)
10. DID Shǐ Tíngfēng leave the day before yesterday? (He was planning to leave, but did he?)
11. Did Wáng Défēn leave YESTERDAY? (She did leave, but was it yesterday?)
12. WHEN did Táng Guóquán leave? (He did leave, but when?)
13. Did Zhōu Wǎnrú leave YESTERDAY? (She did leave, but was it yesterday?)
14. DID Mǎ Zhīyuǎn leave yesterday? (He was planning to leave, but did he?)
15. WHEN did Hú Xiǔfèng leave? (She did leave, but when?)

UNIT 4 COMMUNICATION GAME A

INSTRUCTIONS:

Type: Science

Situation: The setting is Běijīng. You are talking with a group about when several other people arrived or will arrive at a hotel and when they left or will leave.

Goal: To find regular patterns in the information and make predictions about people's days of arrival or days of departure and about whether or not they arrived alone.

Number of Players: Groups of six students or fewer.

Materials: A work sheet for each player. (See Sample Work Sheets, which follow.)

The tail of the arrow on each work sheet shows the person's arrival day. The head of the arrow shows his departure day. A single shaft on an arrow means that the person arrived alone, a double shaft that he was accompanied by someone.

Notice that the "today" column is divided by a dotted line into "before now" and "after now."

Procedure: Mingle with the other players in your group to exchange information.

Use arrows to record the information you collect. (See the first Sample Work Sheet.)

Until you see a regular pattern, use question-word questions. When you think you see a pattern, try making predictions with ba sentences.

Remember that you must find out WHETHER something happened or will happen before you ask WHEN or HOW. However, you may assume that all the people will eventually leave the hotel.

Example: You are Speaker 1. You have a work sheet showing arrival and departure information for one person. As you question the other members of your group, you record the information as shown on the first Sample Work Sheet.

- S1: Tā lái le ma?
S2: Tā lái le.
S1: Tā shì něitiān lái de?
S2: Tā shì jīntiān lái de.
S1: Tā shì yíge rén lái de ma?
S2: Tā shì yíge rén lái de.
S1: Tā shénme shíhou zǒu?
S2: Tā hòutiān zǒu.

You now move on to another player.

S1: Tā lái le ma?
S3: Tā lái le.
S1: Tā shì nǚtiān lái de?
S3: Tā shì qīntiān lái de.
S1: Tā shì yíge rén lái de ma?
S3: Tā shì yíge rén lái de.
S1: Tā shénme shíhòu zǒu?
S3: Tā jīntiān zǒu.

When questioning the next person, you are ready to make a prediction that everyone arrived alone:

S1: Tā lái le ma?
S4: Tā lái le.
S1: Tā shì nǚtiān lái de?
S4: Tā shì zuótiān lái de.
S1: Tā shì yíge rén lái de ba.
S4: Duì le, tā shì yíge rén lái de.
S1: Tā shénme shíhòu zǒu?
S4: Tā míngtiān zǒu.

You were right. The pattern is that everyone arrived alone.

Additional Notes: Here is how to follow up on four possible answers to the same first question.

Q: Tā yǐjīng lái le ma?
A: Tā yǐjīng lái le.
Q: Tā shì nǚtiān lái de?
A: Tā shì. . . lái de.
Q: Tā xiǎng nǚtiān zǒu?
A: Tā xiǎng . . . zǒu.

Q: Tā yǐjīng lái le ma?
A: Tā hái méi lái.
Q: Tā xiǎng nǚtiān lái?
A: Tā xiǎng . . . lái.
Q: Tā xiǎng nǚtiān zǒu?
A: Tā xiǎng . . . zǒu.

Q: Tā yǐjīng lái le ma?
A: Tā lái le, kěshì, yǐjīng zǒu le.
Q: Tā shì nǚtiān lái de?
A: Tā shì . . . lái de.
Q: Tā shì nǚtiān zǒu de?
A: Tā shì . . . zǒu de.

Q: Tā yǐjīng lái le?
A: Tā bù xiǎng lái.
(NO FOLLOW-UP)

You will need to know the word kěshì, "but," in this game.

Practice Points: Everything in the unit.

UNIT 4 COMMUNICATION GAME B

INSTRUCTIONS:

Type: Matching

Situation: The setting is Taipei. Members of your family and of several other families have been invited to a large celebration. Some people have already arrived; some are scheduled to arrive; and some are unable to make it.

Goal: To find matches between your family and another player's in the days when certain kinds of relatives arrived or will arrive; for example, both having mothers arriving tomorrow.

Number of Players: Groups of four to six students.

Materials: A work sheet for each player. (See Sample Work Sheets, which follow.)

In the "family tree" on each work sheet, triangles and circles represent different kinds of relatives. You are the shaded figure.

Under each triangle and circle there is a row of boxes for each person in that category. The row of boxes represents

THE DAY BEFORE YESTERDAY	YESTERDAY	TODAY		TOMORROW	THE DAY AFTER TOMORROW
		BEFORE NOW	AFTER NOW

An X in a box indicates the arrival day of that person. If there are no Xs in the boxes, the person is not coming.

Procedure: Mingle with other group members to exchange information.

When you find a match, point it out immediately, using yě. Record the name of your partner near the row of boxes, and draw an arrow from the name to the row of boxes.

Remember that you must find out WHETHER somebody has arrived or will arrive before you ask WHEN.

Example: You are Speaker 1.

S1: Nǐ jiāli yǒu shénme rén?

S2: Yǒu wǒ fùmǔ, wǒ tàitai, liǎngge nánhàizi, liǎngge nǚhàizi.

S1: Nǐ fùmǔ yǐjīng lái le ma?

S2: Wǒ mǔqin yǐjīng lái le. Wǒ fùqin hái méi lái.

S1: Nǐ mǔqīn shì něitiān lái de?
S2: Tā shì zuótiān lái de.
S1: Nǐ fùqīn něitiān lái?
S2: Tā míngtiān lái.
S1: Nǐ tàitai yǐjīng lái le ma?
S2: Tā lái le. Tā shì jīntiān lái de.
S1: Wǒ tàitai yě shì jīntiān lái de.

(Notice that when a match is found, S2 acknowledges it by saying "My wife ALSO came yesterday.")

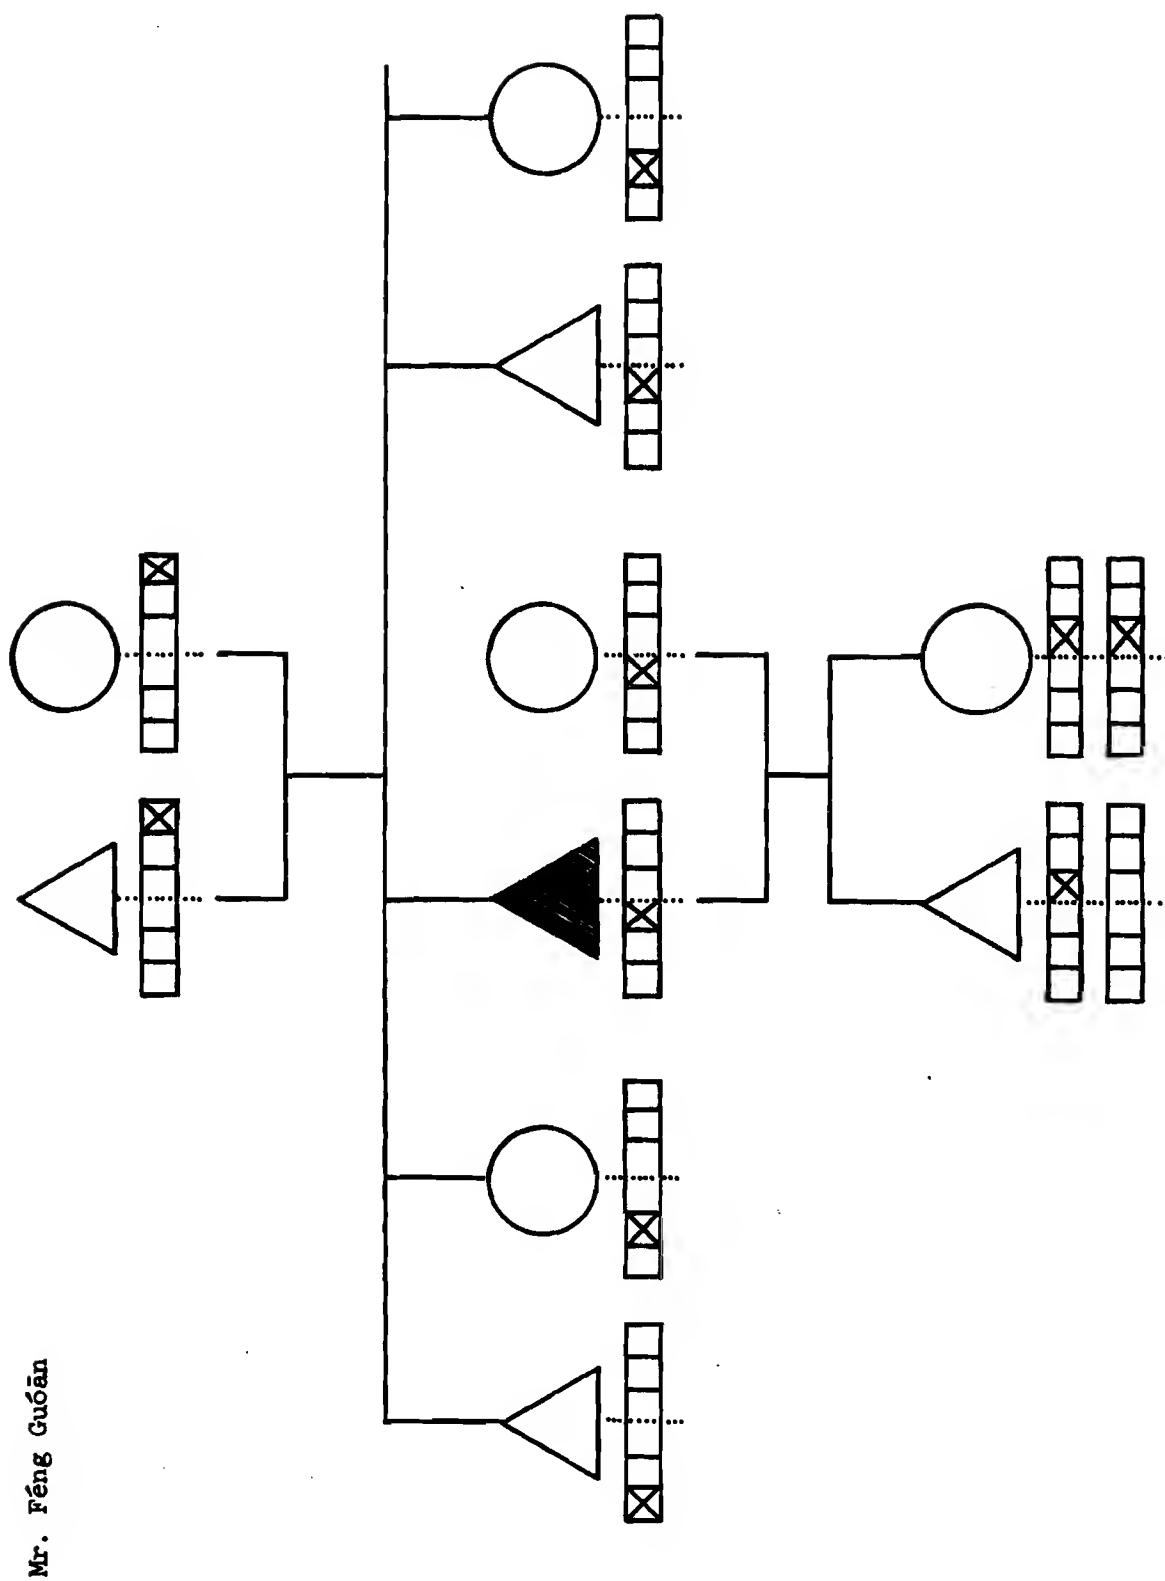

Practice Points: Everything in the unit. Review of relationship terms in Unit 3.

UNIT 5 C-2 WORKBOOK

EXERCISE 1

In this exercise you will work on your comprehension of dates (years).

An official is asking Comrade Jiāng the years of birth for the members of his family. Comrade Jiāng pauses after giving each date while the official writes it down. During each pause, write down the year in the appropriate blank below.

Comrade Jiāng	_____
his wife	_____
his son	_____
his daughter	_____
his father	_____
his mother	_____
his older brother	_____
his older sister	_____
his younger brother	_____
his younger sister	_____

EXERCISE 2

A government official has a list of people who have recently arrived in Běijīng or are scheduled to arrive soon. He needs to know the year of arrival for each person. His assistant is giving him the information.

As you listen, check the appropriate column for each name.

The following new words are used in this exercise:

qùnnián (last year)

jīnnián (this year)

míngnián (next year)

	LAST YEAR	THIS YEAR NOW	NEXT YEAR

EXERCISE 3

In this exercise you will work on your comprehension of the names of the months.

An official needs to know the months when various people arrived or will arrive in Běijīng and the months when they left or will leave. Again, an assistant is giving him the information.

Fill in the information for each person as you listen. Use A for "arrival" and D for "departure."

You will need to know the following expressions:

shàngge yuè (last month)
zhèige yuè (this month)
xiàge yuè (next month)

	Jan	Feb	Mar	Apr	LAST MONTH (May)	THIS MONTH (Jun) NOW	NEXT MONTH (Jul)	Aug	Sep	Oct	Nov	Dec

EXERCISE 5

In this exercise you will hear four people answer questions about the ages of family members. As you listen to their answers, note their ages and those of their relatives in the appropriate columns of the chart below.

You will hear the ages of adults asked in three different ways, two of them new.

duó dà le?

duó dà suìshu le?

duó dà niánji le?

Suìshu and niánji (both mean "years of age") may be used in asking the age of an adult, but not of a child. Nǐ duó dà le? may be asked of a child or young adult but is not usually considered respectful enough for an older person.

You will also hear sentences like this:

Wǒ fùqin bú zài le. (My father is no longer living.)

For the moment, just learn this as an idiomatic expression. It is explained in the instructions for Exercise 5 of the P-2 tape for this unit.

YOUNGER SISTER

EXERCISE 6

For each item in this exercise, the speaker on tape will give the ages or birth dates for two brothers or two sisters. Then he will ask which of the two is the older (or younger) brother or sister.

You will hear each item twice. (If twice is not enough, you may, of course, rewind the tape and listen again.) Put a check mark in front of the correct response for each item.

UNIT 5 P-2 WORKBOOK

In this exercise you will practice giving dates in years.

A government official has a list of people. He knows only whether they have lived in Běijīng, are there now, or will come there. He needs to know the year each person came or is expected to come and the year each left or is expected to leave. As he reads each name from his list, an assistant gives the official the information from the records.

Display I represents the information in the records. An arrow indicates each person's stay in Běijīng.

Play the role of the assistant, using the display to give the official information about each person. Then listen to the assistant's response and repeat it.

"Last year," "this year," and "next year" are not normally referred to by number. Use the following words.

qùnián	(last year)
jīnnián	(this year)
míngnián	(next year)

Example 1 (not on tape)

Tā shì Yījiǔqīwǔnián lái de, shì jīnnián zǒu de.
(He came in 1975 and left this year.)

Example 2 (not on tape)

Tā shì qùnián lái de, Yījiǔqījiǔnián zǒu.
(He came last year and will leave in 1979.)

Example 3 (not on tape)

Tā míngnián lái, Yījiǔbālíngnián zǒu.
(He will come next year and will leave in 1980.)

The official knows whether or not a person has arrived or left. The only question is WHEN. Therefore his assistant uses the shi...de construction for completed action.

EXERCISE 2

In this exercise you will practice giving the names of the months.

A government official has a list of people. He knows only whether they have lived in Běijīng, are there now, or will come there. He needs to know the month in which each person came or is expected to come and the month in which each left or is expected to leave.

As he reads each name from his list, you, his assistant, will give him the information from the records. Display II represents the information in the records. An arrow indicates each person's stay in Běijīng.

Instead of referring to the previous month, the present month, and the following month by name, use the following expressions:

shàngge yuè	(last month)
zhèige yuè	(this month)
xiàge yuè	(next month)

EXERCISE 3

In this exercise your responses will include the days of the week and the days of the month.

A hotel manager is asking a clerk about the guests' arrival and departure dates. Display III presents the information available to the clerk.

Answer the questions before the clerk does; listen to his answers; and repeat them.

Be sure to use "the day before yesterday," "yesterday," "today," "tomorrow," and "the day after tomorrow" when talking about those dates.

EXERCISE 4

Your responses will include birthplaces and full birth dates.

A government official needs this information about several people. As he reads each name, his assistant first tells him that person's birthplace and then adds the full date of birth. (The information is in Display IV.)

After hearing each name, give that person's birthplace, listen to the assistant, and repeat her answer. Then give that person's full date of birth, listen to the assistant, and repeat her answer.

Example

Q: Sūn Ruīmíng ne?

A: Tā shì zài Shānxī shēngde.

Tā shì Yījiǔsānwúnián wǔyuè liùhào shēngde.

Hé Guānghuá	Shāndōng	July 1, 1920
Zhū Xiùméi	Fújiàn	August 19, 1953

EXERCISE 5

In this exercise you will practice giving the ages of members of your family. Answer each question and repeat the confirmations.

Display V provides you with information needed to answer the questions. In each "family tree," you are the solid figure--triangle or circle. You have only one relative of each kind. The age of that relative is written next to the triangle or circle which represents him or her.

You will be asked the ages of adults in three different ways:

duó dà le?

duó dà suīshu le?

duó dà niánji le?

Questions containing suīshu and niánji are more respectful than the simple Nǐ duó dà le? Use the more polite questions when asking the age of a mature adult or an older person. For young adults and children, use Nǐ duó dà le? Answer all of these questions with a number plus the new-situation marker le.

If you are asked the age of a parent who is no longer living (indicated in the family trees by the absence of a triangle or circle in the appropriate place), answer

Wǒ fùqīn/mǔqīn bú zài le. (My father/mother is no longer living.)

First, look at zài in a simpler example:

Wǒ fùqīn hái zài. (My father is still living.)

The verb zài (learned previously as "to be [somewhere]") has a second meaning: "to be here" "to be present" In the example above, this second meaning is extended to "to be alive." In other words, you may think of zài in this context as meaning "to be here [on earth]."

Next, look at the new-situation marker le in this simpler example:

Wǒmen yǒu yíge hái'zi le. (We have a child now.)

Without the marker le, this sentence would be simply information: "We have a child." With the marker le, this is news: "We have had a child (since you last heard)." This is a new situation from the listener's point of view.

Now, to return to bú zài le, we need only add that the situation described by a negative verb can be new.

Example

Q: Nǐ fùmǔ dōu duó dà niánji le? (How old are [both] your parents?)

A: Wǒ fùqīn bú zài le, wǒ mǔqīn wǔshí le. (My father is no longer living; my mother is fifty.)

The fact that the father is not living is a new situation from the listener's viewpoint, since his question assumed that both parents were still living.

UNIT 5 COMMUNICATION GAME A

INSTRUCTIONS:

Type: World Record (Family Ages)

Situation: The setting is Běijīng. You are talking with three people about the ages of members of your families.

Goal: To find the family with the oldest relative of a certain kind. For example: "He has the oldest younger brother among the four of us."

Number of Players: Groups of four students.

Materials: A fact sheet for each player. (See Sample Fact Sheets, which follow.)

The ages of the members of your family are written under the appropriate triangles and circles on your "family tree." If no age is given, you have no such relatives. If more than one age is given, you have several relatives of that kind. (Notice that the ages are based on a "today" of December 31, 1980.)

The relative's date of birth is written beneath his or her age. If you have more than one such relative, only the birth date of the oldest is given.

Procedure: One player is the questioner. He tells the age (or ages) of the member (or members) of his family in one category--let's say the age of his younger brother. Then he asks the ages of the other players' younger brothers and announces the "winner": Tā yíng le, "He won."

In case of a tie in ages, compare the birth dates of the two relatives to determine the winner.

If you forget a player's answer, go back to him to check up on the age (or ages).

In the next round, a second questioner chooses another type of relative to ask about.

Example: You are Speaker 1, the questioner.

S1: Wǒ yǒu liǎngge nánhái. Yíge liùsuǐ le, yíge sìsuǐ le. Nǐ yǒu nánhái ma?

S2: Yǒu.

S1: Yǒu jǐge?

S2: Yǒu sānge.

S1: Tāmen dōu jǐsuǐ le?

S2: Yíge qīsuǐ le, yíge wǔsuǐ le, yíge sānsuǐ le.

S1: Nǐ yǒu nánhái ma?

S3: Wǒ méiyǒu nánhái.

S1: Nǐ yǒu nánháizi ma?

S4: Wǒ jiù yǒu yíge.

S1: Tā jǐsuì le?

S4: Tā bàsuì le.

S1: Tā (pointing to S4) yíng le.

Practice Points: Ages, dates, review of relationship terms.

UNIT 5 COMMUNICATION GAME B

INSTRUCTIONS:

Type: Fact Gathering

Situation: The setting is Taipei. You meet several other Americans and talk about yourselves, your families, and your visits to China.

Goal: To gather facts (name, place and date of birth, date of arrival in Taiwan, whether family members came along, age of spouse, number of children, sex and age of children, expected length of stay in Taiwan) about the people you are talking with.

Number of Players: Groups of eight or fewer students.

Materials: A work sheet for each player. (See Sample Work Sheets, which follow.) Your name and information about you appear on your work sheet. (Note that "today" is March 29, 1978.)

Procedure: Mingle with the other players in your group to gather information. Record the information in the boxes on your work sheet.

Example: You are Speaker 1, questioning Speaker 2.

- S1: Nín guìxìng?
S2: Wǒ xìng Bái.
S1: Nǐ shì zài nǎlǐ shēngde?
S2: Wǒ shì zài Dézhōu shēngde.
S1: Nǐ shì nǎnián shēngde?

S2: Bú shì, wǒ tàitai, háizi yě lái le.
S1: Nǐ tàitai duō dà le?
S2: Tā èrshíliù le.
S1: Nǐ yǒu jǐge háizi?
S2: Wǒ yǒu sānge.
S1: Shì nánháizi, shì nǚháizi?
S2: Yíge nánháizi, liǎngge nǚháizi.
S1: Tāmen dōu jǐsuì le?
S2: Nánháizi wǔsuì le. Nǚháizi yíge sānsuì le, yíge yísuì le.
S1: Nǐ xiǎng shénme shíhou zǒu?
S2: Wǒ xiǎng hòunián zǒu.

Naturally, Speaker 2 would ask you a question after answering each of your questions.

Additional Notes: If someone asks about your husband or wife and you have none, answer Wǒ méi jiéhūn, "I'm not married."

For this game you need to know the word xiǎng, "would like to," "to want to."

Practice Points: Everything in units 1-5 of Module 2.

UNIT 6 C-2 WORKBOOK

In this exercise you will work on your comprehension of duration expressions (years, months, weeks, and days). You must also listen for the new-situation marker le, which indicates a duration continuing up to the present time.

An official who is responsible for foreign visitors to Taiwan needs to know approximately how much time certain Americans have spent in Taiwan and whether they are still there. You will hear a clerk giving to the official information about these Americans from the records. Record the information about each person in the chart on the next page by putting a number and a check mark in appropriate boxes.

Example 1 (not on tape)

John Smith zhùle liǎngniǎn le. (John Smith has stayed here for two years [so far].)

In this case, you would write 2 under "years" and check "still here."

Example 2 (not on tape)

Mary Jones zhùle liǎngge yuè. (Mary Jones stayed here for two months.)

In this case, you would write 2 under "months" and check "no longer here."

EXERCISE 2

This exercise gives you practice in distinguishing time-when phrases from duration phrases--specifically, in distinguishing dates in months from durations in months.

An official needs to know in what months of the next year certain foreign visitors are arriving and for how long certain others will be staying. You will hear his assistant giving the information to the official. Record this information in the chart below. For each person, you will either check off the month of his arrival or enter the number of months he plans to stay.

Example 1 (not on tape)

EXERCISE 3

In this exercise you are listening in on a conversation in Taipei between John White (Báí Yūēhàn) and an old friend, Mrs. Lǐ Shímíng. They have not seen each other for more than a year.

You will hear the conversation three times. As you listen to it for the third time, answer the questions below.

QUESTIONS

1. How long has Mr. White been in Taipei on this visit? _____
2. How long is he planning to stay at the Huáyüán Hotel? _____
3. How long had he lived in Taipei previously? _____
4. How long does he plan to stay in Taiwan? _____

EXERCISE 4

In this exercise you are listening in on a conversation in Taipei between an American and a Chinese who have just met. Some nonessential parts of the conversation may be over your head.

You will hear the conversation three times. As you listen to it for the third time, answer the questions below.

QUESTIONS

1. How long ago did Mr. Johnson arrive? _____
2. On his previous visit, how long did he live in Taipei? _____
3. How long did he spend in Taichung? _____
4. How long did he spend in Riyue Tan? _____
5. How long did he spend in Tainan? _____
6. How long did he spend in Kaohsiung? _____
7. How long had his friend in Kaohsiung lived there? _____
8. How long is he planning to stay in Taiwan? _____
9. How long has Mr. Johnson been married? _____

UNIT 6 P-2 WORKBOOK

This exercise gives you practice in giving durations (months and years) and in distinguishing between completed durations, durations continuing to the present, and durations in the future.

An official in Taipei, who is responsible for foreign visitors, needs to know how long certain Americans have stayed in Taiwan or are planning to stay. As he reads each name from his list (in English pronunciation), a clerk gives him information from the records.

The information available to the clerk is shown in Display I. Notice that the vertical lines mark off periods of two months. A horizontal arrow shows the duration of each person's stay.

Take the part of the clerk: As each name is read, tell the official, in Chinese, the length of the American's stay in Taiwan. Next, you will hear the clerk give the same information. Then repeat after him. If the person has stayed some time and is planning to stay on, first say how long he has stayed to date (and repeat after clerk), and then say how much longer he plans to stay (and repeat after clerk). (See Example 2, below.)

Example 1

TAPE: Mr. John Smith

YOU: Tā zhùle yìnián. (He stayed one year [and is no longer here].)

[Repeat confirmation.]

Example 2

TAPE: Mr. Charles Brown

YOU: Tā zhùle yìnián le. (He has stayed one year [to date].)

[Repeat confirmation.]

Tā hái xiǎng zhù yìnián. (He is planning to stay one year more.)

[Repeat confirmation.]

Example 3

TAPE: Mrs. Ann Little

YOU: Tā xiǎng zhù yìnián. (She is planning to stay one year.)

[Repeat confirmation.]

NOTE: The adverb hái, which you have learned as "still," means "more," "further," or additionally," in the second sentence of Example 2.

DISPLAY I

EXERCISE 2

This exercise gives you practice using the suffix -guo and its negative méi ...-guo.

An official needs to know 1) whether certain Americans are in Taiwan now and 2) whether they visited Taiwan in the past. As he reads each name from his list (in English pronunciation), a clerk answers both questions.

The information available to the clerk is shown in Display II. Assume that it is complete, that is, that there were no earlier visits.

Take the part of the clerk. Give the first part of the answer, and then repeat the clerk's answer. Then give the second part of the answer, and repeat the clerk's answer.

Example 1 (not on tape)

TAPE: Miss Jane Black

YOU: Tā xiānzài zài zhèlǐ. (She is here now.)

[Repeat confirmation.]

Tā cóngqián lái guo. (She has been here before.)

[Repeat confirmation.]

Example 2 (not on tape)

YOU: Tā xiānzài zài zhèlǐ. (She is here now.)

[Repeat confirmation.]

Tā cóngqián méi lái guo. (She has never been here before.)

[Repeat confirmation.]

Example 3 (not on tape)

YOU: Tā xiānzài bú zài zhèlǐ. (She is not here now.)

Example 4 (not on tape)

YOU: Tā xiānzài bú zài zhèlǐ. (She is not here now.)

[Repeat confirmation.]

Tā cóngqián méi lái guo. (She has never been here.)

[Repeat confirmation.]

Notice that Tā cóngqián lái guo and Tā cóngqián méi lái guo have different translations depending on whether the person is here now or not.

EXERCISE 3

In this exercise you will make the same kinds of statements of duration that you made in Exercise 1 of the P-2 Workbook. This time, however, the durations are weeks and days.

A hotel manager needs to know how many days or weeks various guests have stayed or will stay. A clerk is giving the manager information about each guest. Display III shows the information available to the clerk.

Take the part of the clerk. As each name is read, give the information found in the display, and then repeat the clerk's answer. Keep in mind that a two-part answer is called for if the guest has already stayed some time and is planning to stay on.

UNIT 6 COMMUNICATION GAME A

INSTRUCTIONS:

Type: Can You Top This? (Old China Hand)

Situation: The setting is Taipei. You are talking with several people about how long several Americans have spent in China. Some of the Americans have already left China, and some have not.

Goal: To "top" the player you are talking with by playing a card with a longer duration than his card.

Number of Players: Groups of four to six students.

Materials: A deck of cards. Each card has a different duration written on it. Some of the cards are marked "so far," to show that the person is still in China. (See Cards--Can You Top This? which follow.)

Procedure: Each player is dealt a hand of four to six cards. The first player questions a second player, who then questions the first player. Then the second player questions a third player, who then questions him. And so forth.

When it is your turn to be questioned, choose one of your cards to play. Whenever you choose a card, immediately say Tā hái méi zǒu if the card is marked "so far" or say Tā yǐjīng zǒu le if it is not.

The questioner will then ask his question. If you said Tā hái méi zǒu, the questioner should ask Tā zhùle duō jiǔ le? If you said Tā yǐjīng zǒu le, the questioner should ask Tā zhùle duō jiǔ?

You will answer according to the card you have chosen. After the answer has been given, you ask the questioner about the person he knows about. High-card holder wins the two cards in play. Then you question a third player.

If you are not involved in an exchange, try to be the first to identify the winner by pointing to him and saying Tā yíng le, "He won."

The player who tops another player takes both cards and puts them on the table in front of him. (These cards are not added to his hand.) The game continues until there are no cards left in play. The player with the most cards in front of him has won the round.

Other rounds may be played after shuffling the cards and redealing.

Strategy: When you are being questioned, your strategy may be either to play one of your strongest cards, to maximize the chance of a win, or to play one of your weakest, to get rid of it. When you are questioning a player, your strategy should be to top your opponent's card as cheaply as possible, if you can top it, or to get rid of your weakest card, if you can not top it.

Example: You, Speaker 2, have the following hand:

CARD 1	CARD 2	CARD 3	CARD 4
2 years (so far)	6 months	3 weeks	15 days (so far)

Speaker 1 questions you. Before he starts, you choose your strongest card to play, on the theory that he is unlikely to be able to beat it.

S2: Tā (the person whose stay is listed on your card) hái méi zǒu.

S1: Tā zhùle duō jiǔ le?

S2: Tā zhùle liǎngnián le.

S1: Tā (the person whose stay is listed on his card) yǐjīng zǒu le.

S2: Tā zhùle duō jiǔ?

S1: Tā zhùle wǔnián.

S3: Tā (pointing to S1) yǐng le,

Your best card wasn't good enough!

Now you question Speaker 3:

S3: Tā (the person whose stay is listed on his card) yǐjīng zǒu le.

S2: Tā zhùle duō jiǔ?

S3: Tā zhùle yíge xīngqī.

All three of your remaining cards will beat this. You play the weakest, to win as cheaply as possible.

S2: Tā hái méi zǒu.

S3: Tā zhùle duō jiǔ le?

S2: Tā zhùle shíwǔtiān le.

S4: Tā (S2) yǐng le.

Additional Note: As you will have noticed, whether or not the American has left China does not affect the play. This simply gives you additional practice in choosing between durations with and without new-situation le.

Practice Points: Durations.

CARDS--CAN YOU TOP THIS?

5 weeks (so far)	4 years	12 years (so far)	1 week
1 month	6 days (so far)	3 months	4 days (so far)
2 years (so far)	2 months	25 years	2 weeks

6 years	10 days (so far)	8 months (so far)	2 days (so far)
1 day (so far)	1 year (so far)	3 weeks	4 weeks
11 months	10 weeks	5 months (so far)	45 days (so far)

UNIT 6 COMMUNICATION GAME B

INSTRUCTIONS:

Type: Computation

Situation: "Today" is September 14, 1978. The setting is Taipei. You are talking in a small group about how long different Americans have spent or will spend in China.

Goal: Given two of the three facts about any period of time (the first day, the last day, and the duration), to compute the third fact.

Number of Players: Small groups.

Materials: A deck of cards. Each card indicates 1) a period of time in the past, 2) one period up to today and another period starting with today, or 3) a period in the future. Here are samples of the three kinds of cards. (See also Cards--Computation, which follow.)

CARD 1

1/1/77 to
1/31/77

CARD 2

9/15/76 to
9/14/78

9/14/78 to
9/20/78

CARD 3

11/8/78 to
11/9/78

The first card shows one month in the past. The second card shows two years up to the present and one week starting with today. The third card shows two days in the future. (In the Chinese system of counting time, both the first day and the last day are included in the duration.)

Procedure: One player takes a card, and another player (you) questions him.

First, ask whether the American is in China now. If the answer is no, ask whether he has ever been in China. If the answer is again no, ask whether he is thinking of coming to China.

If the person is currently in China: 1) Ask when he arrived; compute how long it has been since he arrived; and announce the length of his stay to date. Or ask how long it has been since he arrived; compute the date of his arrival; and announce it. 2) Then ask when he is going to leave; compute how long he is staying; and announce how much longer he will stay. Or ask how long he is going to stay; compute the date of his departure; and announce it.

If the person was in China formerly or will be in China later: Ask the date of arrival and the date of departure; compute how long he stayed or will stay; and announce the length of his stay. Or ask the date of arrival and how long he stayed or will stay; compute the date of departure; and announce it. Or ask how long he stayed or will stay and the date of departure; compute the day of arrival; and announce it.

Example 1: You are Speaker 1. (Speaker 2 has Sample Card 2.)

S1: Tā xiànzài zài zhèlǐ ma?
S2: Tā xiànzài zài zhèlǐ.

UNIT 7 C-2 WORKBOOK

EXERCISE 1

This exercise consists of six dialogues and narratives. In each passage, the occupation and education of one American now in Taiwan is discussed.

You will hear the series of passages three times. After listening to them twice, answer the question below. Then listen again.

Here are the new vocabulary items you will need for this exercise:

jīngjìxué (economics)

zhèngzhìxué (political science)

QUESTION

1. Which American works for the State Department, studied political science at the University of Texas, and can speak Chinese?
☐ () Mr. Smith (Sī)
☐ () Mr. Wade (Wèi)
☐ () Mr. Brown (Huáng)
☒ (X) Mr. Josephson (Zhōu)
☐ () Major White (Bái)
☐ () Mr. Hansen (Hán)

EXERCISE 2

In this exercise you will listen to a conversation about the educational backgrounds of several people. As a new arrival, Mr. White (Bái) has just been introduced to Mrs. Lǐ.

You will hear the conversation three times. After listening to it twice, answer the questions on the next page. Then listen again.

Here is a new vocabulary item you will need for this exercise:

wénxué (literature)

QUESTIONS

	Mr. White	Mrs. White	Mr. White's friend
1. Who has studied at American University? (Washington, D.C.)
the University of California?
Taiwan University?
2. Who has studied Chinese history?

political science?
3. Who is studying now?

EXERCISE 3

In this exercise you will listen to a conversation which takes place near the end of the school year at an American university. An American student, Miss Jones (Zhōu), is being asked about her courses by a Chinese friend.

You will hear the conversation three times. As you listen to it for the third time, indicate by checking the appropriate boxes below the courses she took, is taking, or will take during each year.

Here are the new vocabulary items you will need for this exercise:

UNIT 7 P-2 WORKBOOK

EXERCISE 1

In this exercise you will answer questions about people's occupations and educations. The information you need is shown in Display I. Each person is discussed in turn.

Answer the questions and repeat the confirmations. The confirmations of the answers to yes/no questions have short "preview" answers followed by full answers. For example:

Méiyóu, tā méi xué Zhōngwén. (No, he has not studied Chinese.)

When a question is asked about an activity which continued for some time in the past, there is no aspect marker. There should not be an aspect marker in your answer.

Q: Tā zài dàxué niàn shénme?(What did he study at college?)

A: Tā niàn lìshǐ. (He studied history.)

Here are the new words you will need for this exercise:

jīngjìxué	(economics)
zhèngzhìxué	(political science)
wénxué	(literature)
shénme dìfang	(where, what place)

EXERCISE 2

This exercise is another series of questions based on the information in Display I.

EXERCISE 3

This exercise is a series of questions based on the information about Mr. Smith in Display II. To give you practice in forming full sentences, many questions and answers are given in full form when in normal conversation they would be abbreviated, leaving out information that could be understood from the context, or from the general situation.

Here is a vocabulary item you will need for this exercise:

UNIT 7 COMMUNICATION GAME

INSTRUCTIONS:

Type: Science

Situation: The setting is Taipei. You are talking with five people about where six Americans are from, where they work, where they went to college, what they majored in, whether they speak Chinese, and, if so, where they studied it.

Goal: To find regular patterns in the facts you gather and make predictions on the basis of these patterns.

Materials: A work sheet for each player. (See Sample Work Sheets, which follow.)

Notice the two vocabulary items at the bottom of each sheet: Wàijīāo Xuéyüàn, "Foreign Service Institute" (Washington, D.C.) and Měngtèrui, "Monterey" (Defense Language Institute).

Example: You, Speaker 1, have your work sheet.

- S1: Tā shì zài nǎlǐ shēngde?
S2: Tā shì zài Jiāzhōu shēngde.
S1: Tā zài nǎlǐ gōngzuò?
S2: Tā zài Měiguó Yínháng gōngzuò.
S1: Tā shì zài nǎge dàxué niànde shū?
S2: Tā shì zài Dézhōu Dàxué niànde shū.
S1: Tā zài dàxué niàn shénme? (no le with continuous action in past)
S2: Tā zài dàxué niàn jīngjìxué.
S1: Tā huì shuō Zhōngguó huà ma?
S2: Tā bú huì shuō Zhōngguó huà.

Since the American whom Speaker 2 is talking about can not speak Chinese, you naturally do not ask where the American studied Chinese.

To simplify this example, only the questioning of your first partner has been included in full form. For the initial questions to your next partner,

- S1: Tā zài nǎlǐ gōngzuò?
S3: Tā zài Táiwān Yínháng Gōngzuò.
S1: Tā huì shuō Zhōngguó huà ma?
S3: Tā huì shuō Zhōngguó huà.
S1: Tā shì zài nǎlǐ xuéde Zhōngguó huà?
S3: Tā shì zài Táiwān Dàxué xuéde Zhōngguó huà.

To further simplify the example, assume that Speaker 4 gives the same answers as Speaker 3 gave.

Now, with the information from these speakers and your work sheet, you may try some tentative predictions with your last two partners. (Again, only part of your questioning is given.)

- S1: Tā zài nǎlǐ gōngzuò?
S5: Tā zài Měiguó Yínháng gōngzuò.
S1: Tā bú huì shuō Zhōngguó huà ba.
S5: Duì le, tā bú huì shuō Zhōngguó huà.
S1: Tā zài nǎlǐ gōngzuò?
S6: Tā zài Táiwān Yínháng gōngzuò.
S1: Tā huì shuō Zhōngguó huà ba.
S6: Tā huì shuō Zhōngguó huà.
S1: Tā shì zài Táiwān Dàxié xiéde Zhōngguó huà ba.
S6: Shìde, tā shì zài Táiwān Dàxié xiéde Zhōngguó huà.

Practice Points: Academic subjects, huì shuō, shì...de plus object, omission of le after the verb for continuous past action.

UNIT 8 C-2 WORKBOOK

EXERCISE 1

In this exercise you will listen to a conversation between two students on a campus in Taipei. You will hear the conversation three times. Before listening for the third time, answer the questions below.

Here are the new vocabulary items you will need for this exercise:

yítáng	(one class hour)
wǒ shísuǐde shíhou	(when I was ten years old)

QUESTIONS

1. What courses is the female student taking?

2. What else do you know about the female student?

3. What courses is the male student taking?

4. What else do you know about the male student?

EXERCISE 2

In this conversation, two people in Taipei are getting to know each other. You will hear the conversation three times. Before listening for the third time, answer the questions on the next page.

Here are the new vocabulary items you will need for this exercise:

Nà duó hǎo a!	(That's so nice!)
shìguān	(sergeant)

QUESTIONS

1. Where do the parents live?

the woman: _____

the man: _____

2. What members of the family are in the armed forces?

the woman: _____

the man: _____

3. What branch of the service are they in?

the woman: _____

the man: _____

EXERCISE 3

In this exercise you will listen to a conversation which is mostly over your head. However, you should be able to understand enough to answer the questions below.

You will hear the conversation three times. The first two times, just listen. Then write your answers as you listen for the third time.

QUESTIONS

1. What happened to Miss Tiánzhōng in Shànghǎi?

2. Why has Miss Tiánzhōng come to Běijīng?

UNIT 8 P-2 WORKBOOK

EXERCISE 1

In this exercise you practice talking about what certain people do for a living and how long they have been doing it, what these people have studied and how long they have studied. Display I gives this information about four people who are now living in Taipei. Use the information to answer questions on tape.

Example

TAPE: Sòng Xiānsheng zài nàlǐ gōngzuò?

YOU: Tā zài Měiguó Yínháng gōngzuò.

TAPE: Tā zài nàlǐ gōngzuòle duō jiǔ le?

YOU: Tā zài nàlǐ gōngzuòle sìnián le.

EXERCISE 2

This exercise gives you practice in using the new-situation marker le, with and without the negative adverb bù.

Mr. Liú has invited several business colleagues to a conference. His secretary has given him a copy of the guest list with each person's name checked off as accepting or declining. But she has now told him that a surprising number of the people invited have changed their minds. Mr. Liú has decided to check his list. As he reads each name, his secretary consults her corrected list and tells Mr. Liú that person's most recent reply. The secretary's corrected list is shown as Display II. (Some check marks have been crossed out and replaced by checks in the other column.)

After Mr. Liú reads each name, tell him whether or not that person is coming. Then listen to the secretary's response and repeat it.

If a person has not changed his mind, there is nothing new about the situation, and thus no need to use new-situation le.

Example 1

Tā lái. (He is coming [and was going to].)

Example 2

Tā bù lái. (He is not coming [and was not going to].)

If a person has changed his mind and is not coming now, the situation is new, and new-situation le is required.

Example 3

Tā bù lái le. (He is not coming now [but was going to].)

EXERCISE 3

In this exercise you will talk about the schedules and attendance records of four students. You will practice using action, state, and process verbs in different situations. You will also review time words.

Display III shows attendance records of four persons for last week, this week, and next week. A box with a check mark means "has a class and attended or will attend it." A box with an X means "has a class but did not or will not attend it." An empty box means "has no class." Use this information to answer questions about Zhōu Měilíng, Lín Shīmín, Sūn Xiǔfèng, and Liú Zīqiáng. For this exercise, assume that students have missed classes only if they were sick. When answering a question with Tā měi lái, always add the information Tā bìng le.

Example

TAPE: Zhōu Měilíng shàngge Xīngqīyī yǒu kè ma?

YOU: Tā shàngge Xīngqīyī yǒu kè.

TAPE: Tā lái le méiyǒu?

YOU: Tā lái le.

EXERCISE 4

In this exercise you practice talking about the changes which have taken place in one person's course of study and career. Display IV shows where Daniel King lived, studied, and worked last year (July-December) and this year. It shows how situations have changed or will change next year (January-July). Use the information in this display to answer the questions on tape.

Example

TAPE: Wáng Dànián qùnián zhùzai Dézhōu ma?

YOU: Bù, tā qùnián méi zhùzai Dézhōu

TAPE: Tā qùnián zhùzai nǎlǐ?

YOU: Tā qùnián zhùzai Jiāzhōu.

TAPE: Tā xiànzài hái zhùzai Jiāzhōu ma?

YOU: Bù, tā xiànzài bú zhùzai Jiāzhōu le.

For this exercise you need to know: 1) The adverb jiù can be added to a sentence with a future time expression to mean "by the time of." For example,

Tā míngnián jiù bú zài
Měiguó Yínháng gōngzuò le.

(By next year he won't be working at the Bank of America anymore.)

2) When you want to say that someone will not be living here next year, you say instead that by next year he will be gone.

Tā míngnián jiù zǒu le.

(By next year he will be gone.)

UNIT 8 COMMUNICATION GAME

INSTRUCTIONS:

Type: Matching

Situation: The setting is Taipei at the beginning of the school year. You are a college student talking with several other students about the subjects you have studied and the number of years you have studied them.

Goal: To find matches between the number of years you have studied a subject and the number of years another player has studied it.

Number of Players: Groups of six students or fewer.

Materials: A work sheet for each player. (See Sample Work Sheets, which follow.)

The numbers in the boxes represent the number of years you have studied the subjects listed. (Be prepared to use the Chinese names for all the subjects.) A plus sign indicates that you are going to take that subject this year.

Procedure: Mingle with the other players to exchange information.

First, choose a partner. Then ask questions in this order:

1. Find out what subjects your partner is going to study this year. Place plus signs in the boxes for those subjects.
2. Ask what subjects he has studied before. Record zeros for the subjects he has NOT studied before.
3. Then ask and record the number of years he has studied the other subjects.

When you find a match, point it out immediately, using yě. Write the player's name in the appropriate box.

Example: You, Speaker 1, have your work sheet.

- S1: Nǐ jīnnián xiǎng xué Fàwén ma?
S2: Duì le, wǒ jīnnián xiǎng xué Fàwén.
S1: Nǐ cóngqián xuéguo ma?
S2: Wǒ cóngqián měi xuéguo.
S1: Nǐ jīnnián xiǎng niǎn Měiguó lìshí ma?
(etc.)
- S1: Nǐ xué Fàwén xuéle jīnián le?
S2: Wǒ xué Fàwén xuéle liǎngnián le.
S1: Wǒ xué Fàwén yě xuéle liǎngnián le.
(etc.)

Additional Note: Whether or not someone is studying a subject now has nothing to do with the matching. This part of the game gives you practice in choosing between single and double le for your duration questions.

By asking all your duration questions at the same time, you practice substituting the names of various subjects in those questions.

Practice Points: Duration sentences with direct objects.
